

Lithuania: Jewish Family History Research Guide

Brief History

In the 16th century, Lithuania and Poland formed a commonwealth, with a joint sovereign and parliament, but separate administrations. Following the third partition of the Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth in 1795, the commonwealth lost lands in the west to Prussia and in the east to Russia. What remained became the Kingdom of Poland. During World War I, Lithuanian lands came under German occupation. After the armistice of 1918, the Soviet army occupied Lithuanian lands. By 1921, Lithuania had become an independent nation, with Vilna and other areas claimed by both Lithuania and Poland and under constant dispute. In World War II, Lithuania was first occupied by the Soviet Union, and then, in 1941, by Germany. By 1944 most of Lithuania had been reoccupied by the Soviet Union. Lithuania remained under the Soviet sphere until 1991, when it became an independent nation.

Finding Your Ancestral Town

Dov Levin's The Litvaks: A Short History of the Jews in Lithuania (Yad Vashem, 2000) includes an appendix of Jewish communities and localities in inter-war Lithuania, listing the Lithuanian and Yiddish town names.

REF DS 135 .E81 L5813

Once you have identified the name of your ancestral town, you can locate it on the map with the following sources. It is also very helpful to identify the province in which your ancestral town is located, using historical atlases and/or websites.

Mokotoff, Gary and Sallyann Amdur Sack with Alexander Sharon. Where Once We Walked—Revised Edition: A Guide to the Jewish Communities Destroyed in the Holocaust (Avotaynu, 2002). This gazetteer lists towns according to variant spellings and provides the map coordinates of the town, as well as an estimate of the pre-WWII Jewish population.

Genealogy Institute DS 135 .E83 M65 2002

ShtetlSeeker Database (www.jewishgen.org/ShtetlSeeker/). Allows you to search for towns using either the exact spelling or the Daïtch-Mokotoff Soundex. Soundex searches find similar sounding names with variant spellings. Links on the database connect each town name to MapQuest.com, where the town location is identified with a red star on the map.

Vital Records

Web Resources

To identify what records from your town have survived, and where they are located, use the Routes to Roots Foundation database of genealogical records for towns in Belarus, Lithuania, Moldova, Poland, and Ukraine.

The website of the Litvak SIG, a special interest group of researchers with roots in Lithuania, includes several helpful features for locating vital records. The All Lithuania Database (ALD) incorporates data from many different sources and contains the largest number of Lithuanian Jewish records on the Internet. Records indexed include census lists, voter lists, and vital records. A search of this database can help you identify records to request from the Lithuanian archives or other sources. The Litvak SIG FAQs (Frequently Asked Questions) provide detailed advice about how to access records from Lithuanian Archives.

Lithuanian Archives

The main source of vital records for the 18th and 19th centuries is the Lithuanian State Historical Archives, Gerosios Vilties 10, Vilnius LT-2009, Lithuania. Tel. (370-2) 23 74 84. Fax (370-2) 23 76 12. This repository contains pre-1915 vital records and some revision lists (census records). Research may be requested for a fee by writing, in English. The response will be in English. Several other Lithuanian archives contain further records—see the Litvak SIG FAQ's for addresses and instructions.
